Other Notes:

You might think that restricting Game Center will keep your child from playing games. Game Center just keeps track of all your in-game achievements, friends, and multiplayer challenges. These things can be disabled if you're interested, but it doesn't keep the student from playing games.

Your child will eventually be on their own without your loving restrictions ;) If you restrict too much too often, they will completely binge on games once they're free from your control. Keep this in mind when taking the step to restrict games. Students ultimately need to learn how to manage their time when games are an option for them. Parenting is work! Blessings on figuring out the balance of restriction and freedom!

Colossians 3:20-21

Children, obey your parents in everything, for this pleases the Lord. Fathers, do not embitter your children, or they will become discouraged.
